In the National Survey of Adolescents, teens who had experienced physical or sexual abuse/assault were three times more likely to report past or current substance abuse than those without a history of trauma.

In surveys of adolescents receiving treatment for substance abuse, more than 70% of patients had a history of trauma exposure.

Emotional abuse, particularly abandonment, is also prevalent among incarcerated men. Over one-quarter of incarcerated men reported being abandoned during childhood or adolescence, diminishing to less than one-fifth (18%) in adulthood.

Experiencing trauma also contributes to the development of posttraumatic stress disorder (PTSD)
